RE: CNC Manufacturing Pty Ltd

Water Wise Water Trucks is an Australian owned manufacturing business producing products for the dust suppression industry.

Traditionally we used offshore machining companies focused in Asia. Most business owners see this as their first and only real choice to be competitive in the market. There is a stigma around manufacturing within Australia and for good reason. It seemed that each time I would get quotes from local companies the prices were so high it would cost me more for the components than what the market would pay for the completed product, This kept forcing us back to the Asian manufacturers. Over time this led to our suppliers counterfeiting our products.

This caused me to search out and make contact with just about every machining company on the east coast. I quickly found that companies using old inefficient machines would pass on the costs of their inefficiencies. I then turned my attention to companies that operated purely CNC equipment and this led me to David Bridges from CNC Manufacturing.

From my first conversation with David I could tell he had a genuine interest in my products and how to manufacture them to the required standard and budget.

We have been able to bring new products to market many times faster than dealing with offshore companies. David is always looking to push his equipment and refine the programs to reduce cycle times and passes the savings on to us helping us keep a step ahead of our competition.

CNC Manufacturing is a great Australian company using the latest CNC Equipment and techniques helping companies like ours move our manufacturing back to Australia.
